To the Disability Law Center,

Let's be honest: I didn't expect your help.

I've already done all the work. I gathered the evidence, documented the abuse, tracked the timelines, and made it all publicly accessible. You didn't have to investigate anything, I did that already. All you would have to do is admit that your fellow lawyers, judges, and public officials have broken the law and violated the rights of disabled people in open court.

That's what you can't do.

Because the moment you acknowledge that abuse of the disabled is happening inside the legal system, not just in institutions or nursing homes, you'd have to confront your own professional network. And that's not something you're willing to do.

The person I'm facing in court is also disabled. His name is Cornelius Tyson. He was a local basketball star before suffering a brain injury. The Hampden County DA's office, which I've exposed in detail for evidence tampering and misconduct, is now prosecuting him. I do not believe they are capable of handling his case or mine, ethically or legally.

But again, I didn't come to you expecting justice. I came to document your refusal, so every other disabled person in Massachusetts knows not to waste their time with you.

Your silence is part of the abuse.

Thank you for contacting the Disability Law Center Mr. Stebbins. DLC has reviewed your request for assistance, and, due to limited funding, we are not able to assist. As the Protection and Advocacy for the state of Massachusetts, the majority of DLC's funding must be devoted to our core functions of monitoring and investigating abuse and neglect in places where people with disabilities live and receive services.

Unfortunately, we do not have the capacity to assist you with your issue. Although we cannot assist you, please find attached the names of some agencies that may be useful to you. If there are other issues you would like to raise, please feel free to give us a call back. Thank you.
